Physical Development

Children and adolescents experience significant physical growth and development throughout their school years. Some of the key milestones include:

- Infancy (0-1 year): Rapid growth in height and weight; development of motor skills such as crawling, standing, and walking

- Toddlerhood (1-3 years): Continued growth in height and weight; development of fine motor skills such as grasping and writing
- Preschool (3-5 years): Steady growth in height and weight; development of gross motor skills such as running and jumping
- Early childhood (6-8 years): Gradual growth in height and weight; development of coordination and balance
- Middle childhood (9-11 years): Rapid growth in height and weight; development of secondary sexual characteristics
- Adolescence (12-18 years): Continued growth in height and weight; development of adult body proportions

Cognitive Development

Children and adolescents also experience significant cognitive development throughout their school years. Some of the key milestones include:

- Infancy (0-1 year): Development of object permanence; beginning of language development
- Toddlerhood (1-3 years): Development of symbolic thinking; rapid vocabulary growth
- Preschool (3-5 years): Development of pre-operational thought; beginning of logical reasoning
- Early childhood (6-8 years): Development of concrete operational thought; ability to understand cause-and-effect relationships

- Middle childhood (9-11 years): Development of formal operational thought; ability to think abstractly and hypothetically
- Adolescence (12-18 years): Continued development of formal operational thought; development of critical thinking and problem-solving skills

Social and Emotional Development

Children and adolescents also experience significant social and emotional development throughout their school years. Some of the key milestones include:

- Infancy (0-1 year): Development of attachment relationships; beginning of social interaction
- Toddlerhood (1-3 years): Development of self-awareness; beginning of peer relationships
- Preschool (3-5 years): Development of cooperative play; beginning of empathy
