The pilgrimage is a great way to get away from the hustle and bustle of everyday life and to focus on your spiritual journey.

The History of the On Foot to Canterbury Pilgrimage

The On Foot to Canterbury pilgrimage has a long and rich history. The first recorded pilgrimage to Canterbury was made in the 10th century by King Ethelred the Unready. Ethelred was seeking forgiveness for the murder of Archbishop Thomas Becket, and he walked barefoot to Canterbury to atone for his sins.

The pilgrimage became increasingly popular in the Middle Ages, and it was a common way for people to travel to Canterbury to visit the tomb of Thomas Becket. Becket was a popular saint, and his tomb was a major pilgrimage destination.

The pilgrimage declined in popularity after the Reformation, but it was revived in the 19th century. In 1866, a group of pilgrims walked from London to Canterbury to mark the 600th anniversary of the murder of Thomas Becket. The pilgrimage has been held every year since then.
